

Fogarty his partner, or some words to that effect. I having suspected her handing information to her friends Payne, Farley and Mayer, then finished up my conversation and her last words to me was, "You are acting cagey".

In the morning I purchased The Times but did not see any pictures or anything concerning the revolver story. Later in the day a New York Times reporter called at the office and Mr. Fogarty was present and showed us a copy of the Daily Mirror of Saturday August 21st and in it appeared a picture of three men. One man holding a revolver. The two pictures to the right were photographs which resemble DeM and Fogarty and the article stated that the man to the extreme right was Mr. William A. Winterer and was positively identified to be no other less a person than John J. Fogarty, chief assistant to DeM., who with his subordinates had worked in the Halls interests, and that the finder of the pistol Mr. Winterer whom they claim was no other person than John J. Fogarty had planted the gun in Philadelphia as a hoax to throw Mr. Simpson off the trail of his investigation. Also that the three men in the picture, that the one to the extreme left which was holding the revolver or pistol is police lieutenant W. P. Ciecuich. In reading further the article published in the Mirror they state that the middle picture which resembles DeM., is that of a Philadelphia lawyer. It is my opinion that the Mirror got two pictures that resemble DeMartini and Fogarty somewhat, for the purpose of furthering their interests and then used the Marsh woman to make a false identification, so that they may prop up their story concerning the finding of the gun.

I might also state that Farley had an agency with a New York City Ex-detective by the name of John F. Shea and that while with him Farley and Shea got into some trouble.
